

Jover Textiles designs, produces, and markets textile products for home decoration and contract projects. Since its founding, the company has paid special attention to environmental protection. In 2008, it implemented an Environmental Management System that is renewed and enhanced each year.

The company is committed to:

Minimizing the environmental impact of its fabrics through strict control measures and the development of sustainable products.

Protecting the environment by preventing pollution and reducing waste, spills, and emissions.

Promoting energy efficiency through cogeneration and the use of renewable energy from photovoltaic plants, thereby reducing energy consumption.

Prioritizing equipment, raw materials, and auxiliaries with the lowest possible environmental impact.

Implementing innovative, low-pollution technologies to prevent and reduce potential contamination.

Complying with all applicable legal requirements, as well as other relevant environmental regulations.

The management of Jover Textiles leads the Environmental Management System and its continuous improvement as a driver of innovation and business productivity.

With the involvement of all personnel, these commitments are also extended to all collaborators.
